——— Mors ſola fatetur
Quantula ſunt hominum corpuſcula —— Juv.
Poſt obitum bene facta manent, æternaq; virtus
Non metuit Stygiis nec rapiatur aquis.

AMONG all the innumerable Species of Animals which inhabit the Air, Earth and Water, ſo exceedingly different in their Production, their Properties, and the Manner of their Exiſtence, and ſo varied in Form, that even of the ſame Kind it can ſcarce be ſaid there are two Individuals in all Reſpects alike; it is remarkable there are none, within our Obſervation, diſtinguiſh'd from the reſt by this Particular, that they are by Nature incapable of DISEASES. The old Poets, how extravagant ſoever in their Fictions, durſt never offend ſo far againſt Nature and Probability, as even to feign ſuch a Thing; and though they made Achilles invulnerable from Head to Foot, and clad him beſide in impenetrable Armour forg'd by the Immortals, yet they were oblig'd to leave one ſoft Place in his Heel, how ſmall ſoever, for Deſtruction to enter at. But though every Animal that hath Life is liable to Death, Man of all other Creatures has the greateſt Number of Diſeaſes to his Share; whether they are the Effects of our Intemperance and Vice, or are given us that we may have a greater Opportunity of exerciſing towards each other that Virtue which moſt of all recommends us to the Deity, I mean CHARITY.

The great Author of our Faith, whoſe Life ſhould be the conſtant Object of our Imitation, as far as it is not inimitable, always ſhew'd the greateſt Compaſſion and Regard for the SICK; he diſdain'd not to Viſit and miniſter Comfort and Health to the meaneſt of the People, and he frequently inculcated the ſame Diſpoſition in his Doctrine and Precepts to his Diſciples. For this one Thing (in that beautiful Parable of the Traveller wounded by Thieves) the Samaritan, (who was eſteemed no better than an Heretick or an Infidel by the Orthodox of thoſe Times) is prefer'd to the Prieſt and the Levite; becauſe he did not, like them, paſs by regardleſs of the Diſtreſs of his Brother Mortal, but when he came to the Place where the half-dead Traveller lay, he had Compaſſion on him, and WENT TO HIM, and bound up his Wounds, pouring in Oyl and Wine, and ſet him on his own Beaſt, and brought him to an Inn, and TOOK CARE OF HIM. The Rich Man alſo is repreſented as being excluded from the Happineſs of Heaven, becauſe he fared ſumptuouſly every Day, and had Plenty of all Things, and yet neglected to comfort and aſſiſt his poor Neighbour who was helpleſs and full of Sores, and might perhaps have been revived and reſtored with ſmall Care, with the Crums that fell from his Table. — I was SICK and ye VISITED me, is one of the Terms of Admiſſion into Bliſs, and the contrary a Cauſe of Excluſion: That is, as our Saviour himſelf explains it, Ye have viſited, or ye have not viſited, aſſiſted and comforted thoſe who ſtood in need of it, even tho' they were the leaſt or meaneſt of Mankind. This Branch of Charity ſeems eſſential to the true Spirit of Chriſtianity; and it ſhould be extended to all in general, whether deſerving or undeſerving, as far as our Power reaches. Of the ten Lepers that were cleanſed, nine ſeem to have been much more unworthy than the tenth, yet in reſpect of their Diſeaſe they equally ſhared the Goodneſs of God. And when the great Phyſician ſent forth his Diſciples, he always gave them a particular Charge, that into whatſoever City they entred, they ſhould heal all the Sick, without diſtinction.

Now tho' in theſe Days we cannot work Miracles, and are not all Phyſicians; yet in this time of general Diſtreſs by Sickneſs, there are few Perſons that have their Health, but what have Opportunity enough of exerciſing that humane and Chriſtian Virtue, which teaches a tender Regard for the Afflicted. It is thought by ſome, that in the preſent Diſtemper, a greater Number have been heretofore loſt for want of ſuitable Care and Attendance, than thro' the natural Malignity of the Diſeaſe. The Rich have Viſitors enough, and Advice enough; but perhaps there may be ſome poor Families, where not only thoſe few that are well, have their Health endanger'd by the conſtant Fatigue of Watching Night and Day, but the Sick ſuffer much for want of Friends to offer their Aſſiſtance. The good Samaritan gave Money to the Hoſt where he had lodg'd his Patient, and ſaid, TAKE CARE OF HIM, and what thou ſpendeſt more, I will repay thee. If our Circumſtances will not afford This, we may at leaſt be helpful in Viſiting, Watching, and doing many other kind Things, which the Poor have almoſt most as much in their Power as the Wealthy.

Now if the Conſiderations of Religion and Humanity have not the Effect they ought to have on the Minds of ſome, perhaps this Obſervation, which generally holds true, may have its weight with the Self-intereſted, That there are no Kindneſſes done by one Man to another, which are remembred ſo long, and ſo frequently return'd with Gratitude, as thoſe received in Sickneſs, whether they are only preſent Comforts, or aſſiſt in reſtoring Health.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

RATISBON, Octob. 5.

THE Letter lately ſent to the Emperor by the Proteſtant Body is now printed and publiſhed here. In this Letter they ſet forth in their proper Colours the violent Proceedings of the Canons of Wurtzburg, M. Van Ethal, Preſident of the Chamber and War Office, and Major Van Auſſaſs; the former in carrying his deceaſed Brother's four Sons to Wurtzburg, without the Knwledge of their Mother, Grandmother, or Mother's Brothers, who were all living, and there educating them by Force in the Roman Catholick Religion; and the latter, for taking his deceaſed Brother's Son, about nine Years of Age, by Force of Arms out of a Coach in which he ſat with his Mother, and carrying him to Bamberg, where he not only educated him in the Roman Catholick Way, but alſo made him take the Oath of a Canon: Wherefore, the ſaid Body pray his Imperial Majeſty, that by Virtue of his ſupreme Authority, he will cauſe theſe Diſturbers of the Publick Tranquility to be exemplarily puniſhed.

Rome, Nov. 4. A certain Monk of quick Thought and good Aſſurance, dreſs'd himſelf the other Day in the Habit of a Prelate, and went to Cardinal Coſcia's, and deſired to ſpeak with him: Being introduced, he whiſper'd his Eminency, that the Pope had given him another Biſhoprick in lieu of Benevento which he had lately reſigned; and that having the Honour to ſtand forward in the Holy Father's Confidence, he had charged him to deliver this Meſſage, and withal to aſſure his Eminency, that he might take Courage, for that his Affair ſhould ſoon be terminated to his Satisfaction, and he might depend upon it, the Pontiff was ready to give him Proofs of his Wiſhes. The Cardinal, overjoy'd at this good News, gave the Monk 100 Piſtoles, who went directly from him, and made Cardinal Fini the ſame Compliment; and he likewiſe gave him a good Sum of Money, with which he walk'd off; but we hear he has been taken at Terni.

Hague, Nov. 8. The Admiral Perez, Miniſter of the Emperor of Morocco, had yeſterday a Conference with ſome of the Lords of the Regency; and the Treaty of Peace which his Excellency is now negotiating with the States, will be mutually ſigned this Week; after which he will have his Publick Audience of their High Mightineſſes, in Quality of Envoy Extraordinary from the Emperor his Maſter. To-morrow the Earl of Cheſterfield keeps the Anniverſary of his Britiſh Majeſty, who then enters into his 48th Year; all the Foreign Miniſters and Perſons of Diſtinction are invited, and the Entertainment will be very ſumptuous: His Excellency has given Orders for two Fountains to play with red and white Wine for the Populace, before the new Doele, at which Houſe Illuminations and Rejoycings will be made, as well as at his Excellency's. The Prince of Naſſau Orange, Stadtholder of Guelderland, Frieſland, and Groningnen, arrived laſt Night at Utrecht, and will be here to aſſiſt at the Entertainment. We learn from Leuwarde, that M. de Glinſtro, Major General of Horſe, died there lately.

London, Nov. 14. A few Days ſince, nine Barges and Lighters were ſunk under one of the Locks at London Bridge, occaſion'd by a Barge of Deals ſtriking againſt the Sterlings, which ſunk down, and ſtopt up the Lock.

Commodore Loſtock is to go with 3 Ships of War, to relieve Commodore Steward in the Weſt Indies.

We hear that his Majeſty hath granted his Royal Licence of Enlargement to the Charitable Corporation for Relief of the Poor, &c. for 300,000 l. which increaſes the Capital Stock of that Company to 600,000 l.

The Judges have rejected a great many Perſons who had preſented themſelves to be admitted to practiſe as Attornies and Solicitors in the ſeveral Courts of Law.

The Effigies of the late Duke of Marlborough, by Mr. Riesbach the famous Sculptor, is to be put up at the Houſe that her Grace the Dutcheſs Dowager of Marlborough is building at Wimbleton in Surrey, for the Hon. Mr. John Spencer, her Grandſon, which will coſt about 1000 l.

Edinburgh, Sept. 17. Yeſterday after Noon, George Donald, Tenant in Loyſton near Aberdeen, was hang'd in the Graſs Market, for Murder of Robert Stuart, Reſidenter in that City. He was upwards of 60 Years of Age. He ſaid that he bore no ill Will to the Perſon he kill'd, but that it was the Effect of being over-heated with Liquor, from the exceſſive Uſe of which he exhorted all Perſons to abſtain. He ſeem'd penitent, and gave abundance of Satisfaction to the Miniſters who attended him.

Aberdeen, Oct. 2. This Day, Robert Main and William Adziel, were executed at the Fiſh-Croſs, purſuant to the Sentence of Will. Forbes, Eſq; Sheriff depute, for repeated Houſe-breaking, &c. having ſo infeſted the Country of Buchan, eſpecially laſt Winter, that People were often obliged to ſit up all Night to watch their Houſes. Several Miniſters attended theſe Criminals at the Gibbet, and notwithſtanding they were very inſtant with with them in Prayer and Exhortation, yet they gave but little or no Satisfaction, tho' by univerſal Conſent, beſides the fulleſt Proof, theſe unhappy Men ſuffered moſt juſtly.

Dublin, Nov. 31. On Tueſday laſt, one Harris of Cole's Alley in Meath-ſtreet, was taken and committed to Newgate, for moſt barbarouſly murdering his own Son, about five Years of Age, by ſtabbing him with a Knife, when he was drunk, having been out moſt part of Monday Night, and coming home with Intention, as 'tis ſaid, to kill his Wife, but ſhe making her Eſcape, he ſtabbed his Son, as abovementioned.

PHILADELPHIA, March 25.

There is a Report in Town, That Mr. Burrel, Pilot, of this Place, is drowned in Virginia.

VERSES on St. PATRICK's Day:

Sacred to MIRTH and GOOD-NATURE.

WHEN God was pleas'd, with Truth divinely bright,
To free the Ignorant from Clouds of Night;
A Night, in which th' unhappy Race of Men,
For many Ages deeply ſunk had been:
His glorious Son in human Features dreſt,
To raiſe us to the Regions of the Bleſt
Divinely preach'd; and ſent his great Commands
By various Meſſengers to various Lands:
Thoſe Meſſengers did many more ordain,
And ſacred Truths deſcended like the Rain,
O'er Earth's wide Surface:---- But as rainy Show'rs
A& not on every Soil with equal Pow'rs;
For ſome, ungrateful to the Sower's Hopes,
Will not reward his Pains with plenteous Crops:
So fair Hybernia would no Ear afford,
To pious PATRICK, Preacher of God's Word;
Tho', from his faithful Tongue, flow'd Truths divine,
He, to confirm thoſe Truths, muſt ſhew ſome Sign.

Hybernia then, if we Tradition truſt,
A dreadful Brood of pois'nous Vermin nurſt;
Unſafe the Natives work'd, unſafe they ſlept,
Their Children's Death the Parents oft bewept.
To prove himſelf Ambaſſador from Heaven,
The Saint, to whom ſuch mighty Power was given,
Convok'd from forth each Swamp, and dreary Cell,
The ſwelling Toad the hiſſing Serpent fell,
And many more ---- whoſe Names I'll not rehearſe,
Leſt they ſhould ſhed their Poiſons o'er my Verſe.

All theſe, proclaim'd the Saint, ſhall quit you Shore,
If you will God and his bleſt Son adore;
And to your Idol Worſhip turn no more!
The Audience, pierc'd by Truth's celeſtial Ray,
Soon the Saint's Precepts promis'd to obey;
The pois'nous Swarms ſeek the ſurrounding Sea.
There plung'd they periſh'd;---- and the happy Land
Has never ſince beheld the loathſom Band.

If true, or falſe, this Legend,---- we muſt grant
'Twas great GOOD-NATURE in the worthy Saint,
The fertile Iſle from pois'nous Broods to free,
Not curſe it for its Infidelity.

For his GOOD-NATURE we his Praiſe rehearſe!
'Tis that which bids us keep this Anniverſe:
And here we meet to propagate Good-Will,
Which, when we do, we God's Commands fulfil;
Whoſe bleſſed Son deſcended from above
To dwell on Earth, and teach us mutual Love,
A Love, whoſe univerſal Force extends
To thoſe that dwell on Earth's remoteſt Ends;
Not partially to our own Sect confin'd,
But due to all the Sons of human Kind:
Not to the Jews, God's own peculiar Race,
Nor to the Greeks whom Arts politeſt grace;
But towards ALL the num'rous Sons of Man,
Who down from Adam's Loins in long Proceſſion ran.

Warm with theſe Thoughts which Heav'n itſelf inſpires!
Forgive her if the anxious Muſe enquires,
Why CHARITY to ALL, ſo juſtly due,
Is not diſpens'd alike to Greek and Jew?
Or if ſo far abroad it muſt not roam,
But needs muſt frugally begin at home;
Why ſhould a true-born Son of Engliſh Breed,
Deſpiſe his Brother dwelling o'er the Tweed?
Or why not deign with chearful Face to ſmile,
On him who dwells in near Hibernia's Iſle?

For Shame, let CHARITY extend to ALL!
Is VIRTUE or is REASON national?
Do not their Fruits in ev'ry Climate riſe?
Is any happy Land exempt from Vice!

Where-ever then th' eſſential Marks we find
Which from the Brutes diſtinguiſh human Kind;
No foreign Cuſtoms, Modes, Complexions, Dreſs,
Indiff'rent all, ſhou'd make GOOD-NATURE leſs.
For howſoe'er in theſe exterior Things,
The various Nations are by various Springs
Oblig'd to differ---- yet we plainly ſee
They in their nobler Faculties agree.

Throughout the Globe they feel the ſelf-ſame Wants,
The ſame Diſtreſs all Adam's Children haunts.
Their Faults and Imperfections are the ſame;
All which an univerſal Pity claim:
Throughout the Earth each Mortal ſhould aſſiſt
With kind Indulgence, ſuch as are diſtreſt.

Then while we friendly take a chearful Bowl,
Let's wiſh that every Man with honeſt Soul,
May gen'rouſly throw down with noble Scorn,
Thoſe dire Encloſures ſhagg'd with prickly Thorn,
Which ſome (who ought to meet with much Diſpraiſe)
Ignobly bent, have taken Pains to raiſe,
Men born for ſocial Life to ſeparate,
And plant 'twixt Nations everlaſting Hate.

As one great City was the Earth deſign'd,
As Fellow-Citizens are all Mankind;
Who ALL have Right to Kindneſs and Good-Will,
Which ſhould on ALL, like ſilent Dews diſtil;
Whether they're White, or Black, or Bond, or Free,
Of whatſoever NATION they may be,
Nay, tho' they in RELIGION diſagree.
